

BREAK THE BLOCKS

Northwestern | COMMUNICATION
Center for Audiology, Speech,
Language, and Learning

FREE Improv Classes for Tweens & Teens Who Stutter

Did you know that participating in improv can help with stuttering?

It's true!

Northwestern University Center for Audiology, Speech, Language, and Learning (NUCASLL) will be hosting another series of guided improv workshops that will allow teens and tweens who stutter to:

- Enjoy a welcoming space where stuttering is accepted and supported—and mistakes are celebrated.
- Practice flexibility and taking risks.
- Learn to avoid “avoiding” due to the spontaneous nature of the improv activities.
- Have the option to pass during any activity with no questions asked.
- Improve their personal reactions in a supportive environment where they can be comfortably uncomfortable.
- Create a community with others who stutter.
- Have fun!
- New and returning participants are welcome!

WHERE

The Wirtz Center for the Performing Arts, Northwestern's Campus
1949 Campus Dr.
Evanston, IL 60208

WHEN

Mondays 5:30–7:00 p.m.

January 27, 2025

February 3, 2025

February 10, 2025

February 24, 2025

March 3, 2025—optional performance/family participation night

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

These free sessions will be run by Elisha Boxer Magnifico, MA/CCC-SLP, assistant clinical professor and speech-language pathologist, alongside her MS SLL graduate students and David Catlin, Head of Acting for the Department of Theatre and founding ensemble member of the Lookingglass Theatre Company, and a team of undergraduate theatre students. For this series, we will host an optional performance/family participation night on Monday, March 3rd, 2024.

SPACE IS LIMITED—ADVANCED REGISTRATION REQUIRED

Call 847-491-3165 or email NUCASLL@northwestern.edu.

NUCASLL.northwestern.edu

